212. Neu-Mannheim. Pfarrkirche, erbaut in klassizistischem Stil

Kirche: Um das Jahr 1880 erbaute N-M. ein Bethaus, das erste Gotteshaus im Molotschnaer Siedlungsraum. Die nachmalige Pfarrkirche war trotz der neogotischen Fenster eine typisch klassizistische Kirche; sie wäre gut in Südwestdeutschland denkbar gewesen und läßt sich mit der Pfarrkirche in Dornheim bei Darmstadt vergleichen (erbaut 1810–1834). Zur inneren Ausschmückung bestellte Pfarrer Malinowski 1910 bei der Kunstanstalt Stuflesser eine Rosenkranzkönigin-Statue (160 cm hoch) mit Bordüre für 90 Rbl.

Around 1880 Neu-Mannheim built a prayer house, the first place of worship in the Molotschna settlement area. The parish church, which was built later, was a typical neoclassical church, in spite of the neo-Gothic windows; it would have been felt right at home in southwestern Germany and can be compared with the parish church in Dornheim near Darmstadt (built in 1810-1834). For an interior decoration, Pastor Malinowski ordered a statue of the Queen of the Rosary (160 cm high) with border from the Stuflesser Art Institute in 1910 for 90 Rubles.
